Family Counseling
CENTER OF CENTRAL GEORGIA

November 12, 2024

Family Counseling Center of Central Georgia, Inc. is a non-profit agency that has been dedicated to providing accessible mental health services to individuals and families of middle to low income since 1957. 88% of our clients receive our services free of charge, which ensures that income is not a barrier to receiving these critical resources. We are also offering case management to our clients in need that connect them with community resources that assist them in securing basic needs like food, housing, medical care, etc.

In recognition of Early Childhood Mental Health Awareness, FCC hosted a Community Fall Festival on November 9th from 11:00 AM to 2:00 PM at the Rosa Jackson Recreation Center in East Macon. The festival was in honor of Chsandra Johnson and her legacy in mental health promotion and serving this community.

This event was designed to be a fun, free, and positive experience for children and their families, while also bringing much-needed attention to the importance of early childhood mental health. More than 20 non-profit agencies, organizations, and government offices across Macon joined us to share their resources in a lively carnival atmosphere, filled with engaging activities and educational opportunities. We created a space where families could access important mental health resources while their children enjoyed games, entertainment, and more. More than 200 community members participated in the festivities and gained invaluable resources with the assistance of more than 50 volunteers.
